Concept Note

The conference, to be held on the theme of "Exploring the Unearthed System of Systems in Linguistics", seeks to advance a holistic understanding of language as a complex and dynamic network of interconnected systems. The diverse domains of linguistics - including phonetics, phonology, morphology, lexicology, syntax, discourse analysis, pragmatics, semantics, applied linguistics, sociolinguistics, and related fields - do not operate in isolation; rather, they interact and converge to constitute the broader architecture of human language. Exploring these nuances and intricate interconnections among them offers valuable insights into how linguistic structures, cognitive processes, social contexts, cultural practices, and technological advancements collectively shape human communication. It is known fact that viewing language as a "system of systems" with the lenses of other disciplines encourages scholars to move beyond conventional disciplinary boundaries and explore emerging relationships among linguistic phenomena. Such an approach has the potential to generate innovative theoretical perspectives, interdisciplinary methodologies, and new directions for understanding the structure, evolution, diversity, and societal role of language and its various manifestations. Thus, the present conference aims to provide an inclusive and intellectually stimulating platform for scholars, researchers, and students to present innovative research, theoretical insights, and empirical findings across the full spectrum of linguistic inquiry. By fostering meaningful academic dialogue, interdisciplinary collaboration, and the exchange of diverse perspectives, the conference aspires to open up new dimensions of linguistic research and contributes to shaping future directions in the field of Linguistics.
